September 2020

Model Book: High Tight Flags 1915 - 2020

The High Tight Flag (HTF) formation is a rare and powerful price pattern. Normally, only one or two of these patterns are seen in a bull market. It begins with a stock moving +80 – 120% in a short period of time, usually four to eight weeks. It then corrects sideways no more than 10-25% usually in 3-5 weeks. Though powerful, the pattern is very risky and difficult to interpret correctly. Many stocks can rocket 200% off this formation. Interpretation can be improved by studying these prior patterns and using them as precedents for future stocks exhibiting similar characteristics.

This Model Book studies 54 High Tight Flags sprinkled from 1915 – 2020. Data and statistics were gathered from their breakouts, run-ups and flag characteristics. In addition, the daily and weekly price and volume charts were evaluated for insights. From the study, the average run-up of the Pole was +127%, surely enough for people to feel the price is too high. But what appears high can go higher. The ensuing breakouts from the Flag pivot was a stunning +333% on average.

The 2020 Bear Market was a rapid decline off the top and was followed by an equally impressive recovery straight off the bottom. Most people were fooled and hesitant to buy on the Follow-Through Day (FTD) as fear of the Covid 19 Virus had gripped everyone's psyche. The High Tight Flag pattern which is typically a rare occurrence appeared numerous times in the new Bull Market off the March 23, 2020 lows. The lessons and recognition of sound base patterns with their proper pivot points can result in a profitable portfolio when applied with discipline. The market always favors those who put in the time and are well prepared for the next opportunity.

Successful Trading,

Stock Market Winners: Data Research Guidelines and Definitions

High Tight Flag: Min of 80% - 120% move in 9 weeks or less and a Flag Correction of 10-25% max in 3-5 weeks

Pivots: Whenever the pivot on the Daily/Weekly Chart differ, the Weekly Chart has been used. The actual date and BO Day gains/volume data still comes from the daily chart.

Pole Measurement – measured from the absolute low of the pole even if within the base

Flag Measurement – measured from the intraday high of the pole to the intraday low within the flag
